From the Coordinator
Dr. Daniel Villanueva, Assistant Director
Honors Program, University of Nevada, Reno

On behalf of the many University of Nevada, Reno Honors Program staff and students who have worked so diligently to plan this weekend, welcome to the 42nd Western Regional Honors Conference! We particularly welcome many first-time participants to this showcase of undergraduate scholarship and innovative Honors administration from around the West, including Alaska and Hawaii this year. Likewise, we are glad to welcome back veteran Programs and Colleges whose presence lends tradition and continuity to the proceedings. Our gratitude also goes out to the sponsors who make this conference possible. Most importantly, however, we thank our over 320 participants for sharing their time, research, and “prospector spirit” with colleagues from the 38 Programs present this weekend.

Whether an Honors student, faculty member, or administrator, you all know how challenging and time-consuming, but ultimately satisfying, Prospecting for Knowledge can be. As you peruse this program and attend the sessions on any number of interesting themes, you will, indeed, see an impressive vein of scholarship mined by Honors Programs and Colleges during the past year. Our dedicated “Best Practices Block” at 4:30 PM on Saturday is just one example of this trend: Representatives from several Honors Programs including our own will be facilitating interactive sessions on a variety of student success, pedagogical, and mentoring topics. We invite you not only to admire what has been unearthed by dedicated scholastic prospectors, but also to refine and process that knowledge by actively engaging the panelists and facilitators with your own questions and comments.

German philosopher Friedrich Schlegel reminds us that true education is a community effort. It is in celebration of this special community called Honors that we welcome you to the University of Nevada, Reno this weekend. Happy prospecting, and do let our friendly staff know if we can be of assistance in navigating the terrain!
President’s Welcome
Dr. Marc Johnson, President
University of Nevada, Reno

Dear Friend,

On behalf of the University of Nevada, Reno, welcome to the 42nd annual Western Regional Honors Conference (WRHC). Our institution is honored to welcome all WRHC member institutions, faculty, staff and students to our beautiful campus.

Honors Programs and Honors Colleges provide universities from across the country with the worthwhile opportunity to promote students’ capacities to enrich their educational experience through innovative academic programs and transformational personal experience. The Honors Program at our University has a long and distinguished history of nurturing such academic accomplishment. Over the past few years alone, we’ve produced Goldwater, Truman and Marshall Scholarship recipients as well as a Rhodes Scholarship finalist. The accomplishments of our Honors Program speak to the increasing quality of our student body and of our institution as a whole. We are ranked among the finest universities in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. We are building a culture of student success, world-improving research and creativity, and outreach efforts that enhance communities and businesses throughout Nevada and our world.

Our University has also experienced record institutional achievement, on practically every front, over the past few years. We are at record levels in enrollment, retention, student diversity and graduation; we have added more than 1 million square feet of new facilities in the past decade; we have more than 300 National Merit/Presidential Scholars attending our University; in the past year our student competition teams, in disciplines ranging from the neurosciences to engineering to debate, have won more national team championships than at any other time in our history.

I hope you enjoy your stay in Reno during this year’s conference. I hope, too, that you experience the state of Nevada’s founding institution of higher learning for yourself – from our campus’ springtime beauty, to our state-of-the-art facilities, to our helpful, friendly people. We are certainly glad to have you here.
Keynote Speaker
Dr. Eric Rasmussen
Foundation Professor of English
Chair, UNR Department of English

Dr. Eric Rasmussen’s work focuses on editing Shakespeare and Early Modern drama. His first monograph, A Textual Companion to ‘Doctor Faustus’ (1994), significantly changed understanding of the early texts of Christopher Marlowe’s play and paved the way for the groundbreaking editions that he and David Bevington prepared for both the Revels Plays series and for Oxford University Press.

Among other recognitions, Dr. Rasmussen has received the Alan Bible Teaching Award, the F. Donald Tibbitts Teaching Excellence Award, and the Board of Regents Teaching Award. He has also been very generous with his time in instructing Honors Program contract courses, mentoring Honors theses, and giving public lectures in the Honors Great Presentation series.

Conference Schedule
Detail of Sessions

* indicates a student presenter

Saturday, 9:00 am – 10:15 am
Panels and Workshops I

Pedagogy and Politics

Nathaniel Bush, Central Arizona College

Learning Styles in Math
This presentation details the results of a study conducted in which students were given a learning style assessment quiz and various study skills to determine the efficacy of these study skills.

Olivia Hirschey, Central Washington University

United States Politics and Bilingual Education
This project explores politics and bilingual education in the U.S. from the 18th through 21st centuries. It examines the foundations of bilingual education policy by assessing key court cases and analyzes their current impact in California, Colorado, Arizona, and Texas.

Sohini Mukherjee, Chapman University

Educating the Masses: Do Illegal Immigrants have the Right to an Education?
This paper is a study of the literature and opinions surrounding the debate of undocumented immigrants and their access to education. It determines that such access is both necessary and a fundamental right.
Leah Hale*, Fort Lewis College
Climate Change Science Understandings and Misunderstandings: A Survey of a Small Public Liberal Arts College in the Western United States
Despite the importance of a citizenry properly understanding climate change science, public understanding and opinions of climate change conflict with scientific evidence and consensus. This research project explores what undergraduates at a small public liberal arts college in the Western U.S. understand or misunderstand about climate change.

Brianna Morgan*, Haley Eck*, Southern Oregon University
Oil and Water Don't Mix: The Risks of the Keystone XL Oil Pipeline
This paper discusses the environmental, political and ethical issues that surround the Keystone XL Pipeline Extension.

Jess Macinko*, Central Washington University
Comics Without Panels: Alternative Approaches to Graphic Storytelling
This presentation explores historic and contemporary forms of narrative graphic art, with an emphasis on non-panel or loose-panel methods. It explores the potential for a broader, freer comics universe.

Claire Stasiewicz*, University of New Mexico
#SuperYou - Building Self Esteem Through Visual Art
The process of making art provided an outlet for high school girls to think about, discuss, and understand common adolescent issues like self-esteem, body image, and relationships.

Andrea Wall*, Southern Utah University
A Ceramic Metamorphosis
Adapting Kafka's The Metamorphosis into a ceramic sake set, the artist learned about many of the intricacies of the adaptation process.
Kim Andersen, Washington State University
Prospecting for Knowledge: The Honors Thesis as an Undergraduate Research Component
This paper discusses the learning outcomes of the Honors thesis experience at the WSU Honors College.

Alton Campbell, Alyssa Ertel*, Mickinzie Johnson*, University of Idaho
Things That Matter Discussion Groups
"Things That Matter" (TTM) weekly conversation groups provide unique opportunities for Honors students to form strongly-bonded, intellectual, and social communities. Topics of conversation include religion, perfectionism, love, happiness, relationships, and stress.

Aubrey Jenkins Lord, Weber State University
The Honors Center: The Heart and Home of a Vibrant Program
This research explores the challenges and successes the Weber State University Honors Program has encountered as its students use a physical Honors Center on a commuter campus.

Hannah Fay*, University of Montana
Molecular Biology of a Surface-exposed Protein Family of Bartonella bacilliformis
A specific gene is suspected to help the virulence of the bacterium Bartonella bacilliformis, which causes Carrion's disease. This paper identifies the location of the product protein in the cell and ascertains the gene's function.

Bavly Ibrahim*, El Camino College
Recombinant DNA and Its Medical Benefits: Synthesis of Insulin
Recombinant DNA has a great advantage in producing insulin from bacteria that are similar to human insulin. Escherichia coli is used to synthesize human insulin from cloned synthetic gene.
Stacey Krepel*, University of Alaska Fairbanks

Oxidative Stress Induces Nuclear Translocation of the Antioxidant Defense Regulating Transcription Factor Nrf2

Nrf2, a protein that translocates to the nucleus upon activation by oxidative stressors, up-regulates the transcription of oxidative-defense proteins. Qualitative data show a considerable increase in nuclear Nrf2 concentrations when cells are treated with H2O2.

Public Health and Service  JCSU 402

Sikandar Bangash*, El Camino College

Pathophysiology of Sickle Cell Anemia and Fatal Infections

This paper discusses why Sickle Cell patients are prone to infections (often fatal) and how the nervous system contributes to this vulnerability.

Amanda Bello*, Southern Utah University

Connection Through Service

Exemplifying the importance of service through cultural immersion and humanitarian trips as a part of the undergraduate and graduate curriculum, this paper argues that students can connect to their own humanity through the service of others.

Combat and its Aftermath  JCSU 422

Mercedes Knarr-Dittrich*, Mesa Community College

Women in Combat through History: The Psychological, Physiological, and Cultural Effects of War

This paper explores the history of women in combat and the psychological, physiological, and cultural effects of war on participants.

Claire Thornton*, Washington State University

The GI’s of Washington State College

This project measures the impact that the GI Bill had on Washington State University and its students from 1945-1950. Oral interviews and university publications provide the basis for its findings.
Librarians and Honors

Pat Ragains, Ann Medaille, Amy Shannon, University of Nevada, Reno

Supporting the Entry into Scholarly Conversations: Library and Information Literacy Support for Honors Students

This panel provides an overview of library support for students in the Honors Program at the University of Nevada, Reno: teaching an information literacy course, special library services for Honors students, instruction in creating online academic portfolios, and making UNR Honors senior theses available online.

Saturday, 10:30 – 11:45 am
Panels and Workshops II

Water and Conflict

Matthew Baldwin, Central Washington University

Sharing the Nile: The Grand Ethiopian Renaissance Dam

With Ethiopia's water demands historically disregarded by Egypt and Sudan, Ethiopia has now begun development on a project that reshapes the water sharing agreements for the Nile. What regional repercussions may result from Ethiopia's rise as a hydroelectric power in the Nile Basin?

Kris Choe, California State University, Fullerton

Jay Gatsby's Trauma: The American Holocaust

This paper reads F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel The Great Gatsby through trauma theory to explain Jay Gatsby's obsession with repeating the past. It explores his reintegration into society following the Great War and suggests that his "extraordinary gift for hope" leads to his tragic death.

Engineering and Mathematics

David Abu Hanna, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Roulette: More than just Chance?

Data are generated through a physical roulette wheel to test whether an association exists between initial conditions (the pocket from which the ball is released) and output (the pocket where the ball lands). The existence of an association diminishes roulette as a game of "pure" chance.
Ethan Apodaca*, Estrella Mountain Community College

Old and New: Building Strobe Lights

This paper explores the engineering process of building two strobe lights: one with digital components and the other with analog components. It analyzes the differences between the two.

---

Ryan Anderson*, Central Washington University

Crossroads Recording Project: Mentoring Program

The "Crossroads" Recording Project is the artistic creation of a tangible album of the musical theatre canon. This presentation focuses on the creation of a mentoring program between university students and Seattle Symphony Orchestra instrumentalists to allow for an experience that is professional, artistic, and collaborative in nature.

Sydney Blackmore*, University of Montana

Trigger for Change: Theatre as a Tool for Social Dialogue

This project explores the use of theatre in raising awareness about, educating about, and promoting dialogue on sexual assault.

Nikolai Eiteneer*, Chapman University

Lighting Design Proposal for Tom Stoppard's Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead: Chapman University Spring 2015

This presentation proposes the design of Chapman University's production of Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead, Tom Stoppard's absurdist tragicomedy. The lighting design reflects the balanced mood of the play, highlighting Rosencrantz and Guildenstern's witty banter.

Robert Brazell*, Metropolitan State University

How your Coffee Addiction Changes the World

From crop to cup, this analysis covers the full cost of the cup of coffee: price of resources used, waste, pollution, worker wages, and price of social problems that arise. This paper discusses the costs of buying fair trade coffee and using the best practices for sustainability and social welfare.

Giulianna Crivello*, Sierra Nevada College

Managerial Insight

This paper researches the different managing styles within the food industry that lead to a successful manager.
Student-Led First-Year Seminars  Senate Chambers

Kyle Bishop, Amber McConnell*, Matt Nickerson*, Southern Utah University

*Handing Over the Reins: Student Autonomy in the First-Year Seminar
This paper examines SUU’s newly revised, first-year seminar, which incorporates Ken Bain's best teaching practice of the "Big Question," a teaching practice that gives students control over portions of the syllabus, focuses on learning outcomes specific to the program, takes greater advantage of student-led seminar discussions, and culminates with a competitive symposium.

Daniel Coyle, Aeriel Halstead*, Sarah Wright*, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Undergrads Teaching Undergrads: The Central Role of Peer Instructors in a Revamped First Year Seminar
Triggered by university-wide changes and a large incoming class of Honors students, the UNLV Honors College redesigned its first year seminar for 2014. Despite many changes, the College was committed to maintaining the central role of peer instructors.

Writing Center Leadership  JCSU 402

Anne Scott, RobinLi Uber*, Luke Bruggemann*, Northern Arizona University

Cory Briar*, Alyssa Kaufman*, Western Washington University

The Life of a Writing Center Tutor
Both Western Washington University and Northern Arizona University utilize Honors students as Writing Center tutors. Two student representatives from each university offer their perspectives on the value of their work, and insights on the process of operating a Writing Center.

Microbiological Investigations  Great Room

Ciara Garcia*, Estrella Mountain Community College

Investigation of a Model to Study Biofertilizers
This preliminary study investigates an experimental model for the evaluation of the effects of biofertilizers on fast-growing plants. This experimental model allows for simultaneous comparison of fertilization amendments, and a method for the evaluation of the number of culturable microbes in a biofertilizer.
Zoe Glasser Breeding, Flathead Valley Community College

Cyanobacteria: The Good, the Bad, the Beautiful

This project studies the potential antimicrobial properties of cyanobacteria and experiments with different isolation techniques to obtain axenic cyanobacterial cultures.

Colonialism

Emily Ebbers, Chapman University

Unearthing Imperialism: The Power Dynamics of the Production of Knowledge in Colonial-Era Egyptology

Colonial-era Egyptology was an exercise of power, closely linked to the formal structures of imperialism, in which European scholars dominated the production of historical knowledge, silencing and subverting the narrative of the modern Egyptian people.

Abigail Kim, Chapman University

Creating Identity: The Korean Third Space

By analyzing interviews of Korean elders who were adolescents in 1945, this research shows how the conditions of Japanese colonialism shaped both society and the home in which these adolescents developed their national identity.

Honors Research, Honors Thesis

Matthew O'Gara, Rocky Mountain College

An Argument Against Arguments: Promoting Analytical Rigor in Undergraduate Research

This paper questions the pedagogical utility of requiring students to formulate argumentative claims when writing research papers. Argumentative writing often demonstrates a simple confirmation of preexisting biases, whereas an analytical method utilizes open-ended research questions, forcing students to examine competing scholarly perspectives.

Jill Stephenson, University of Utah

Creating a Residential Thesis Mentoring Community

Through the use of an online course management system and creative monthly programming, students in a residential thesis mentoring community have higher participation rates than other living learning communities. This paper argues that the addition of an online community increases communication and collaboration for students to engage in the thesis process.
Saturday, 1:30 pm – 2:45 pm
Panels and Workshops III

Religion

Tiffany Ho, Chapman University
The Conversion to Christianity in Asian-American Immigrants
Using survey data and economics of religion concepts, this paper attempts to explain why an increasing number of immigrants from Asian countries have converted to Christianity.

Maria Ramirez Loyola, University of California, Riverside
Influence of Religiosity and Spirituality on Waiting Experiences
An online survey examined the role of religious/spiritual beliefs as people await uncertain news. The results show that people who are more religious/spiritual report less information avoidance and a more positive outlook during waiting periods, suggesting that beliefs may confer a sense of comfort and confidence in the face of uncertainty.

Medical Care and Disease

Jordan Andersen, Metropolitan State University of Denver
Chronic Pain in Pediatric Patients: An Anthropological Approach
Through a bibliographic study on chronic pain in pediatric oncology, this paper examines the condition from microbiology to culture. It discusses the far-reaching effects on the patient, family, and clinical team.

Brad Dixon, Flathead Valley Community College
Disease and Dehumanization
The presentation examines humankind's penchant for stripping individuals infected with pathogenic microorganisms of their status as human beings, and ostracizing them from society.

Danielle Snow, Southern Utah University
The Impact of Professionalism in Nursing
This paper argues that maintaining nursing as a profession instead of just an occupation leads to responsible healthcare members who uphold the reputation of the nursing profession.
Landscape and Nature

Dane Rasmussen*, Flathead Valley Community College
Cottonwoods: A Timeline of Perspectives
Cottonwood trees in the Great Plains are dying out. While many factors contribute to the deaths of individual trees, the main problem is the removal of cottonwood habitat through the damming of streams and rivers. This presentation focuses on the relationship between historical perspectives of landscape and the way cottonwoods are viewed and treated.

Reena Spansail*, University of Nevada, Reno
Forever Falling: Eden and the Apocalypse in the Postwest
Using an interdisciplinary approach that braids together literary analysis, creative writing, and visual art, this paper focuses on the Western landscape as the nucleus of competing Edenic and apocalyptic iconography. It asks how these iconographic modes can help develop humans’ relationship with their landscape.

Andrew Sypher*, Mesa Community College
The Mythical and Environmental Impacts of Kilauea Volcano
Kilauea's eruptions are unpredictable and alter the components of the local ecosystem. Utilizing quantitative analyses of Hawaiian Volcano Observatory data and a collection of factual information from documentaries, archives, newspapers, and reports, this investigation demonstrates the interconnectedness of Hawaii's topography and culture.

Honors and Greek Life

Jenae Christensen*, Cassidy D'Amour*, Steven Kish*, Ian Stewart*, University of Nevada, Reno
G(r)eek Life: Combining Honors and Fraternity/Sorority Membership
This panel presents the benefits of Honors students participating in fraternity and sorority life.
Creating Honors Community  Great Room

Jenifer Drew*, Southern Utah University

Lost in the Rite of Passage: The Effects of Rituals in Creating a Community

Through an examination of various cultures' rites of passage and personal experience within the Greek communities of sororities and fraternities, the paper applies the need for an initiation ceremony to Southern Utah University's Honors Program.

Derrick Espadas*, Alex Figueroa*, Celeste Nunez*, Pima Community College

Cultivating the Honors Student in Us All

This paper discusses how Honors students have the responsibility to reach out to qualified students who need help to meet the academic standards of the Honors Program.

Shannen Mosqueda*, Chapman University

Share Your Pain with Me: An Exploration of Fear, Worldedness, and the "Other"

Utilizing data from the 2014 Chapman University Fear Survey and Martin Heidegger's worldedness, this project examines the fear of the "Other," its consequences for society, and its effect on the agency to understand and embrace the "Other."

Participatory Honors  JCSU 402

Prakash Chenjeri, Ken Mulliken, Southern Oregon University

Engaging Honors Students in Leadership and the Promotion of Democracy

SOU is initiating the Democracy Project (DP)--a comprehensive examination of how democracy is understood, implemented, and promoted worldwide. The presentation explains the goals and activities for the DP.

Joseph Holliday, El Camino College

Increasing Latino/Hispanic Student Participation in Honors Programs

This paper discusses the efforts an Honors program can put forth to increase its Latino/Hispanic participation.
Honoring Knowledge

John Purdie, Hope Spargo*, Courtney Telloian*, Allison Wusterbarth*, Western Washington University

*The Ore Next Door: Refining Knowledge from Information
The panelists discuss their experiences in the Western Washington University Honors Program, noting how they have learned to rely on mentors and peers to separate essential knowledge from the bewildering mass of information that they confront in college.

Mexico and Latin America

Amanda Buell*, University of Nevada, Reno

*The Tawdry Case of Maria de la Candelaria: Hechiceria, Sex, and Women’s Honor in Colonial Mexico
The case of Maria de la Candelaria raises questions about the place of women in society and the role of the Inquisition in social relations. Women’s agency, violence, sexual scandal, honor, and class are addressed in the analysis of the case.

Estefania Rivera Gonzalez*, Sierra Nevada College

*Mexico: A Civilization Changed by Guns, Germs and Steel
Jared Diamond’s book Guns Germs and Steel states that countries develop faster and effectively based on their ability to domesticate food. This paper applies this theory to the Mexican civilization of the Aztecs. It argues that Mexico did not follow this development, causing it to fall under continued colonial power.

Mona Schwartz*, University of Montana

*Truth Commissions and Collective Memory in Latin America
This paper examines the connection between truth and memory, and the impact of truth commissions on dissent and unity after human rights abuse. It explores the making of collective memory in Latin American nations that have experienced human rights abuse and the role of truth commissions.
Saturday, 3:00 pm – 4:15 pm
Panels and Workshops IV

Morality, Mortality

Devin Marcus*, Chapman University
Strange, Far Places: The Interaction between Horror Media and the Internet
By examining various fixtures of modern horror, this paper establishes a connection between the Internet and Horror media that represents a step forward in the genre. Horror media, in inverting the various traits of the Internet, issues a warning against its misuse.

Juan Sandoval*, Sierra Nevada College
Death and Dying in America
Using statistical analysis, questionnaires, and interviews with professionals in the field of psychology, this paper shines light on the notion of death and how Americans view death today.

Arianna Villasor*, El Camino College
The Search for Power and Empowerment: Why Sex Trafficking Persists Today
This paper discusses how sex trafficking creates a false sense of belonging for both the trafficker and the minor.

Honors Student Leadership

Lauren Aldana*, Ben Barnes*, Katie Setty*, Hannah Theophil*, Southern Oregon University
Enhancing Leadership Skills with “Take the Lead Projects”
How do you enhance leadership skills for Honors students outside the classroom, while simultaneously sparking their creativity, prompting their community engagement, and reinforcing their focus on the university mission? Four Honors College students from Southern Oregon University would like share their experiences in creating their “Take the Lead Projects.”
Honors Looks at Disney I

Susan Aronstein, Katya Larson*, Kirby Lawrence*, Carissa Poindexter*, University of Wyoming

Prospecting in the Park: Narrative, History, and Consumption in Disneyland

Walt Disney dedicated Disneyland "to the ideals, the dreams and the hard facts that have made America." Does Disneyland still teach lessons about American history and dreams? The answer to this question was sought during a field-research trip to Disneyland.

Data, The Arts, and Adventure

Allison Fukano*, California State University, Fullerton

SEC Comment Letters: A Look into the Entertainment Industry

The basis of this project is to examine comment letters issued by the SEC to the top five entertainment companies based on revenues from 2014. This project looks at comments specifically relating to a company's 10-K financial statement between the years 2010 and 2014.

Jennifer Montreuil-McGowan*, Central Arizona College

Skydiving Personalities in Relation to Discipline

This creative research project flushed out different personality types within the sport of skydiving and five of its disciplines. The Kiersey temperament sorter was given to sixty skydivers. The artist used the findings of the poll to create eight paintings to show the findings of the research.

scribendi

Amaris Ketcham, Jesse Montoya*, Keriden Jumping Eagle Brown*, Neethi Baskaran*, University of New Mexico

Perfectly Bound: The Scribendi Classroom

In this panel presentation, three Scribendi editors discuss the value of the classroom experience for student staff members of the literary magazine. These student editors discuss assignments designed to build skills and institutional memory, building community among staff members, and collaborative and individual parts of the yearlong course.
Representing history and Culture

Great Room

Ashley Baker, Central Washington University
Everything is Permitted: Redesigning Ezio from Assassin’s Creed 2 as a Female Character
This presentation explores video game culture, history, and costume by redesigning the character of Ezio Auditore from Assassin’s Creed 2 into a female character.

Anja Kruslin, Chapman University
How Trade with the East Fueled the Economic Policies that Allowed Italy to Maintain its Competitive Advantage in the Pursuit of Mercantile Profit throughout the Renaissance
Trade with the East fueled the economic policies that allowed Italy to maintain its competitive advantage in trade. This pursuit helped to sustain the Renaissance through not only the diffusion of knowledge, but the practical implementation of new ideas that also allowed for long run development and change.

Honors Collaborative Advising

Kety Luna, University of Nevada, Reno
Advising, Engineering, Honors
This presentation shares the experiences of an engineering advisor and former Honors Program advisor and describes ways in which advisors guide students differently.

Tiffany Schmier, University of Nevada, Las Vegas
Joint Advising: Collaboration for Graduation
The Honors College at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas has implemented a joint advising program that allows a student to meet with a discipline advisor and an Honors College advisor in one cohesive session.

Film and Mass Media Studies

Ashish Hingle, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
The Evolution of Content-delivering Websites through Analytics, Interface and User-experience
This research highlights the strategies and techniques that traditional content websites such as CNN.com have adopted in the evolution of their content, interface and user-experience to focus on a conversion-driven design.
Jennifer Kim*, Chapman University
#justanotherdisaster
Disasters are international occurrences that have affected people emotionally, physically and/or financially. This paper attempts to explain why certain disasters receive more or less coverage compared to other disasters.

Jordan Vidmore*, Central Washington University
The Guiding Factor: Music in American Cinema
An integral but under-studied aspect of American cinema, the musical accompaniment is the strongest guiding factor in the viewers' perception. This paper explores the underlying factors that contribute to this phenomenon.

Sports

Alaina Daum*, Scottsdale Community College
Traumatic Brain Injuries: Underestimated Epidemic
Recently, Traumatic Brain Injuries (TBIs) have become a leading health epidemic in the U.S. After researching TBIs in sports, the military, and American life, the results show vast societal underestimation, increased disability, and higher suicide rates.

Austin Neff*, Central Washington University
Show Me The Money: Should College Athletes be Paid?
Should college athletes be paid or are they fairly compensated through athletic scholarships and other preferential treatment? This presentation investigates this question as well as other ethical issues within the current structure of intercollegiate athletics from a philosophical perspective.

Sofia Pedroza*, California State Polytechnic Institute Pomona
The Odds Are Never In Our Favor
In 2014 the world turned to Sochi as its Olympic host. Media coverage described feats of athleticism against the backdrop of Russia's political turbulence. Analysis of Olympic news coverage points to a different issue: the International Olympic Committee

Honors “Best Practices Block”

The following panels and workshops are offered to provide useful insight into various dimensions of Honors student, faculty, and administration best practices. Active participation from audience members is encouraged!

Honors and Study Abroad  JCSU 317

Daniel Villanueva, Megan Breen*, Jacqueline Cope*, Rachel Wang*, University of Nevada, Reno

_Getting Lost Abroad_
Three students, via response essays on Rebecca Solnit’s _A Field Guide to Getting Lost_, discuss their experiences studying in Germany, Spain and the UK, respectively, with the University Studies Abroad Consortium (USAC). The link between “getting lost,” finding oneself, and the role of the Honors Program in that process will be demonstrated.

Honors Mentoring — Creative Writing  JCSU 320

Michael Gills, Anna Drysdale*, Trevor Stott*, University of Utah

_Honors Year-Long Novel Writing Workshop_
This paper discusses the process of facilitating a year-long novel writing workshop at the University of Utah wherein each student writer produces a full-length novel that can be used for the Honors Thesis.

Student Views on The Honors Thesis  JCSU 323

_Preparing for Undergraduate Research_
This panel of student researchers in five different disciplines give advice on conducting original research, finding a suitable mentor, preparing for the completion of the thesis, and presenting and publishing the findings.
Daniel Coyle, Anna Gingrich*, Conner McCubbin*, Natalie Schibrowsky, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

When the Going Gets Tough (Mudder): Strengthening an Honors Community through Wellness Activities
The UNLV Honors College assembled a group of over 30 students to run a Tough Mudder. As the students crossed the finish line of the 11-mile obstacle course, they realized they had tapped into a powerful means of fostering camaraderie and promoting personal health.

Competitive Fellowships Senate Chambers

Tamara Valentine, Steven Delacruz*, Josue Regalado*, Ivon Padilla-Rodriguez*, Anita Savell*, Miwako Schlageter*, University of Nevada, Reno

Competitive Fellowships: Hear from the Winners
A panel of fellowship advisors and fellowship winners review the application process for select fellowship programs and discuss what it takes to win a prestigious national fellowship such as the Rhodes, Goldwater, Truman, Marshall, and Udall.

Enhancing Leadership Great Room

Derek Furukawa, University of Nevada, Reno

Moving your Resume from Involvement to Leadership
Leadership is a key component that employers and graduate/professional schools look for in viable candidates. This session discusses ways students can move co-curricular activities from simple involvement to being a compassionate leader. Testimonials are provided from Honors students about how they engaged in meaningful leadership in their undergraduate years.

Honors Collaborative Communication JCSU 402

Conrad Rauscher, Flathead Valley Community College

Technology Boot Camp: Enhance Collaboration and Communication
This workshop integrates online learning platforms and Google docs, Google forms, and Twitter. NOTE: Participants should bring their own laptops. Participants should create Google and Twitter accounts prior to the workshop.
Honors Internationalization

Beth Uding, Cultural Vistas, Alexandra Albert*, Charlotte Gläntz*, Modesto Junior College, Daniel Villanueva, Larissa Kazungu*, University of Nevada, Reno

*Internationalizing Honors: The Congress-Bundestag Program
Representatives from Cultural Vistas and the University of Nevada, Reno Honors Program discuss how the Congress-Bundestag Exchange for Young Professionals (CBYX) contributes to the internationalization of the University and Honors. Three current German CBYX participants also outline their experiences.

Honors Grand Canyon Semester

Ted Martinez, Madeline Smith*, RobinLi Uber*, Northern Arizona University

*The Grand Canyon Semester: An Immersive, Integrative, Positive Learning Environment
The 2014 Grand Canyon Semester was designed around an interdisciplinary applied core of environmental science, human ecology and environmental policy. Students created a positive learning environment by honoring inclusion, taking safe academic risk, and building confidence.

Sunday, 9:00 am - 11:00 am

JCSU Ballroom A

Sunday, 10:00 am - 11:15 am
Panels and Workshops V

Honors and the Environment

Autumn Bernhardt, Colorado State University

*It's Only Natural: How Sustainability is Connected to Everything
Where collaboration and communication are important to creating innovative solutions, interdisciplinary learning helps students appreciate the complexities of modern environmental issues, makes them aware of the biases and limitations within their own disciplines, and prepares Honors students for careers.
Ted Martinez, Johanna Statom*, Northern Arizona University
An Interdisciplinary Honors Learning Experience in Ecological Restoration
The environment of the Colorado River Delta in Mexico has become extremely threatened by the building of dams and the redirection of water. Students enrolled in an NAU Honors seminar witnessed first-hand the effect restoration had on communities. Participants developed new ideas about restoration, community building, human restoration and interdisciplinary learning.

Creative Fiction

Claire Hanberg*, Central Washington University
The Perils of Command in the British Royal Navy
This paper explores the dynamics of a creative thesis project to produce a short piece of historical fiction about command ethics and dynamics in the British Royal Navy during the Napoleonic Wars.

Amy Henderson*, Southern Utah University
"Trust the Tale, Not the Teller": An Experiment in Purposeful Adaptation Infidelity
Creating a series of adaptations in various mediums based on the Grimm Brothers’ fairy tale The Robber Bridegroom, this paper looks at the process of adaptation and the true role of fidelity in adaptation theory.

Victoria Horseman*, University of Nevada Reno
London's Finest: How Creating the Police Force Created Monsters
This paper discusses the uses of historical fantasy as social commentary. It discusses the various monster tropes and their uses in fiction to discuss social issues.

The Rule(s) of Law

Agustinus Pamungkas*, El Camino College
Super PACs: A Potential Scourge of American Democracy
Super PACs threaten the integrity of the electoral institutions in two ways: connections with political candidates and proxies for those candidates to run negative campaigns. This paper argues that public support against Super PACs inspires future legislation mitigating the damage these PACs have done to the electoral system.
Cristiana Wilcoxon*, Chapman University

Be Careful What You Sign For: The Destructive Power of the Unconscionable Contract
Addressing abuse of human liberties, this paper discusses the need to bridge the gap between the privileged few who understand contract law and the general public.

Violence and Mental Health

Courtney Potts*, Sierra Nevada College

Troubled Youth
This paper suggests that the recovery process of teen victims of abuse can be supported through literary entertainment.

Athena Turek-Hankins*, University of Nevada, Reno

The Effect of Militarization and Conflict on Intimate Partner Violence
Intimate partner violence is an issue of human security that threatens the lives of women. Some advocates accuse armed conflict and military norms as contributing to gender violence. This research investigates the psychological and feminist linkages between militarization, conflict, and intimate partner violence.

Claudia Villasante*, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Men and Infidelity: Toward a Theoretical Understanding of Extradyadic High-Risk Sexual Decision-Making
This qualitative study investigated extradyadic high-risk sexual decision-making (HRSB) in men. The study found chemical impairment and individual factors contribute to HRSB. Quality of the alternative and hyper-focus on attraction were associated with decision-making.

Women’s Health and Violence

Desiree Greenhouse*, Chapman University

Can You Hear Me? Do You Care? The Police as Agents of Social Control Against Black Women in the United States
Social control against Black Americans is historic, taking violent form through the institutions of slavery, Jim Crow era lynchings and police brutality. However, a significantly gendered pattern of social control embedded within racialized narratives has made Black women’s experience with police distinct in the U.S.
Cassie Nguyen*, University of California, Riverside

Gender Health Equity: Social and Cultural Beliefs, Insurance Coverage and Health Awareness

This paper addresses the problems of access to quality healthcare for women who pay higher costs for primary health care services and endure early detection and preventative screenings.

Cheyenne Weishaar*, Central Washington University

How Social Factors Limit American Access to Abortion

This paper examines factors that limit women's access to abortion post-Roe v. Wade. Factors such as education, socioeconomic status, legislation, and cultural views on the moral status of the fetus demonstrate that abortions are not equally accessible, and that social factors limit accessibility.

NUTRITION AND HEALTH

Alyssa Brown*, Southern Utah University

Methods of Acquiring and Implementing Nutrition Information for Children

This paper investigates how parents acquire and implement nutritional information into their child's lifestyle.

Kendra Rickard*, Chapman University

The Politics of Food Insecurity: An Examination of Obesity in the U.S.

This paper investigates the link between obesity and food insecurity in the U.S., and the implications for healthcare professionals and policymakers.

Jessica Zepeda*, Paradise Valley Community College

Exercise: Why is it so Hard?

This presentation focuses on the internal and external factors of the motivation to exercise. Included in the discussion is a checklist of behaviors discovered through the research project.

HOMELESSNESS

Lindsey Andrachick*, Jessie Blanc*, Flathead Valley Community College

The Many Faces of Homelessness

This presentation challenges the preconceptions of homelessness and compares the services available to persons who are homeless in the small town of Kalispell, MT and the big city of Seattle, WA.
Zaveios Horton*, Paradise Valley Community College

Homeless not Hopeless

The presentation focuses on potential solutions and programs that go beyond providing temporary food and shelter to the 3.5 million people who are homeless in the U.S. This presentation includes the personal account of a woman who endured ten years of being homeless.

Lindsay Lake*, Metropolitan State University of Denver

Baggage

"Baggage" presents months worth of research done in Denver, Colorado on the issue of homelessness. This literary journalistic piece reflects on the idea that homelessness affects every member of society.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Maggie Krienen*, Central Washington University

The Arab-Israeli Conflict: How a Battle for Land Progressed Into Religious Warfare

The origin of the conflict between the Arabs and Israelis over Palestine can be traced to a land dispute. The dispute has turned into a religious battle with the help of the media who have helped shift perception around the world.

Lidia Mezei*, University of Nevada, Reno

An Extended Evolution of a Hungarian Revolution

This paper addresses the historical and contemporary implications of the Hungarian Revolution of 1956. It addresses the recurrent tension between western sociopolitical powers and westward-encroaching Russia.

HONORS LOOKS AT DISNEY II

Julye Bidmead, Marilyn Love*, Shannen Mosqueda*, Megan Parish*, Chapman University

Teaching the Sacred Text: Images of Gender, Race, and Religion in Disney

This panel showcases papers from Chapman University's Honors class “Disney: Gender, Race, and Religion.” Students deconstruct the wonderful world of Disney, by examining Disney's cultural pedagogy as evidenced in Disney films.
Danielle Platt*, Chapman University
As urban development due to population growth continues to skyrocket globally, many urban communities have begun criticizing and restructuring urban models to accommodate these issues and address concerns of environmental sustainability. This presentation discusses current urban issues and potential solutions to environmental and social hazards.

Renee Estephant*, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
*Water Warriors-Investigating the Efficacy of Promotional Efforts on Water Conservation in Los Angeles County
Due to California's recent drought, Los Angeles County has embraced water conservation practices. The goal of this study is to investigate the promotional efforts on water conservation in the L.A. area and the success of these efforts.

Skyler Bexten*, Flathead Valley Community College
*Brain-Computer Interfaces and Scientific Morality
Can science answer moral questions? This presentation argues that morality could become a science; and that current scientific methods, the emerging technology, and brain-computer interfaces could discover moral facts.

Olivia Jaqua*, Central Arizona College
*The Care and Cost of Psychiatric Patients
The paper answers the questions: How is the care of psychiatric patients compromised from the time that they call 911 to the time they return home? On average, what is the total cost of this procedure, and how can the amount of time be decreased?
Stacy Bliss-Lefebvre*, Central Arizona College

Words Women Use
This paper discusses the research on the language women utilize when speaking about and to each other. The results of surveys show that students perceive language differences between genders.

Emilia Vitti*, El Camino College

Swimming: A Pre-Industrial Historical Approach Regarding Masculinity, Gender Roles, and Homoeoticism
Within 19th century America, Thomas Eakins’ paintings challenged gender roles, masculinity, and sexuality through nudity and choice of landscape, providing male form and pre-industrialization commentaries. This interpretive and psychoanalytical approach considers social conditions and their effect on Eakins’ controversial and provocative composition.

Nicole Perez*, University Honors, UC Riverside

University Student Attitudes And Behaviors Towards Cognitive Enhancement Drugs
Prescription stimulants like Adderall, which is used to treat ADHD, have gained popularity among students. This paper examines the predictors of student opinions towards the illicit use of cognitive enhancement drugs (CEDs) through analysis of student backgrounds and attitudes toward CEDs. Results show personality type and demographics are correlated to specific views towards CEDs.

Melissa Reese*, California State University, Fullerton

Internalization of Sociocultural Attitudes Towards Appearance: Is it Related to Eating Disorder Stigma?
This project explores whether there is a relationship between respondents’ awareness of and acceptance level of sociocultural ideals of appearance and the accuracy of respondents’ beliefs about the causes of eating disorders.
Prakash Chenjeri, Lauren Aldana*, Heather Buchanan*, Haley Eck*, Mariah Roley*, Southern Oregon University

Scientifically Literate Citizenship: An Honors College Curriculum – An Honors curriculum strives to offer more than simply facts and figures about a subject. It aims to expand understanding and working with complex topics while enhancing knowledge for active participation in a democratic society. This panel of students and faculty will discuss how one course at Southern Oregon University addresses this objective.

Kathryn Ratko*, Fort Lewis College

Object or Fragment? A Semiotic Analysis of Women in Advertising Campaigns

This presentation examines the role of women in specific advertising campaigns. It argues that women undergo a process of objectification, fragmentation and consumption. Using semiotic analysis and ecofeminism, the researcher demonstrates how some women are rendered absent and then consumed, similar to mainstream practices in butchering and consuming animals.

Sarah Smith*, Chapman University

"Make it a Woman's World": The 1911 California Woman Suffrage Campaign

Operating within respectable notions of femininity, California suffragists created a successful cross-cultural mass campaign to achieve their goals in 1911. The decentralized nature of the 1911 campaign allowed for greater flexibility, ultimately allowing California suffragists to frame suffrage in economically, politically, and socially attractive terms.

Jessica Thulson*, Fort Lewis College

The LPGA: A Woman-Drive or Patriarchal Organization

This presentation details research conducted on a gender-specific professional sports organization. It asks the question whether the organization empowers a certain gender or not. To answer this question, the researcher utilizes both liberal and radical lenses to analyze historical trends and interviews with currently active participants.
Alexandra Butler*, University of Utah
Is Utah's Sex Education Controversy Relevant Today?
Through interviews, this study addresses the questions of what young Utahans take away from their sex education courses, and from what other sources they gain information on sexual health.

Manuel Chavarria*, Fort Lewis College
Blood Glucose Response to Aerobic and Anaerobic Exercises
This interdisciplinary investigation seeks to improve practices in public health. It details an original experiment measuring blood sugar levels as they relate to aerobic and anaerobic exercises in hopes of improving community public health practices for diabetes.

Miranda Roland*, Southern Utah University
Beneficial Medical Service and Surveys in Nicaragua
Participating in a medical alternative break, the researcher discusses the results of surveys given to participants of temporary medical clinics in rural areas of Nicaragua.
Student Poster Session
Sunday, April 12th, 9 am – 11 am
JCSU Ballroom A

Names, descriptions, and numbers below correspond to the placement of each poster in Ballroom A and are provided as a guide to each student’s research. All poster presenters are kindly requested to remain available to speak on their research throughout the entire two-hour session.

Three poster presenters will be given a certificate and a monetary award at the conclusion of the conference. Winners will be judged by a committee of Honors faculty on the basis of criteria distributed to the students prior to the conference and must be present to be awarded.

1. Ayymen Amaar, University of California, Riverside
   Modeling the Intermediate Transfer Step in the Gox/HRP Enzymatic Cascade On Molecular Scaffolds
   This research models the intermediate transfer step in the enzyme cascade of Glucose Oxidase (Gox) and Horseradish Peroxidase (HRP) using computational methods to give insight on how to make the chain reactions in enzymes more efficient.

2. Kaitlyn Barger, University of Nevada, Reno
   Mindfulness and Transpersonal Psychology: A New Approach to Aging
   This research aims to demonstrate that aging in psychological research tends to eschew socio-psychological factors, showing a negative trend focusing on mechanisms of cognitive decline.

3. Cassidy D’Amour, University of Nevada, Reno
   Need for Affect and Magnitude of Change and Implications for Marketing
   This study tested whether or not an individual's need for affect is a moderating factor for magnitude of change in opinion. Findings show that females with a high need for affect who are shown emotionally saturated stimuli show a greater magnitude of change.
4. Emily Gary, University of Nevada, Reno

Ahead of the Storm: Estimating Damage and Hurricane Likelihood in the Face of Climate Change

Trends in frequency and damage associated with tropical cyclone occurrences help to aid coastal populations in the event of devastating storms. This project explores the feasibility of predictive modeling in order to provide quantitative data for response agencies to aid populations affected by future devastating tropical typhoons.

5. Joshua Gotham, Chapman University

Quantum Computers and their Applications in Pharmaceuticals

The purpose of this research is to identify how quantum computers can be used to make improvements to new drug discovery. Using powerful modeling and predictive capabilities provided by quantum computers can model and test drugs without requiring years of trials that current drug production faces.

6. Abigail Kim, Sarah Smith, Chapman University

Shakespeare's Other: Postcolonial Identity in The Tempest

Shakespeare's play The Tempest, despite its Elizabethan timeframe, contains a postcolonial Other and a hybrid "third space" identity. A postcolonial analysis of the character Caliban illustrates the theories of hybrid identity and perception of the Other, while maintaining Shakespearean attitudes towards the Orient.

7. Brian Kmetz, Chapman University

Data Mining Techniques for Use in Cancer Diagnosis/Treatment

Leveraging the computational power of modern computers, data mining techniques extract knowledge and patterns from otherwise intractable data sets. Assessing the interdependence of measurements in a set of data points in conjunction with information gain methods improves big data analysis to improve the predictive capabilities of cancer diagnosis models.
8. Natalie Law, California State University, Fullerton
Evolution and Growth of a Man-Made Wetland: A Case Study in Norco, CA
A three acre artificial wetland in Norco, California, was analyzed to determine its maturation since its inception in 2000. Water quality tests of pH, conductivity, and total dissolved solids were analyzed to determine the wetland's degree of maturity. The results indicate that the wetland has matured into a fully-filtering site since 2000.

9. Solena Mednicoff, University of Nevada, Reno
Auditory Ensemble Coding within and across Sound Sources
Summary statistical perception is a sensory coding strategy where observers perceive the "gist" or "average" of scenes rather than individual elements. This project compares the ability to perceptually average within vs. across different stimulus categories by measuring the percepts for tone sequences composed of two different musical instruments.

10. Nicolas Mitchell, University of Nevada, Reno
An Analysis of Hedging and Investing in a Football Betting Market
This research analyzes the 2014 NFL season. The data from the season were recorded and tested to determine which statistics have a greater impact on game results. This information was applied to the football betting market to execute betting strategies similar to financial risk management techniques.

11. Sohini Mukherjee, Chapman University
The Influence of Ethnicity Upon Attractiveness and Dating Desirability of Males in Online Dating
This project examines whether differences in ethnic identity leads to discrimination in online dating and in the attraction to mates.
12. Michelle Nemetchek, University of Montana
The Effect of Bacopa monnieri on the Release of the Proinflammatory Cytokines TNF-α and IL-6 from LPS Activated Microglial Cells
This project seeks to isolate novel compounds from the Ayurvedic plant Bacopa monnieri that decreases levels of proinflammatory cytokines in LPS-activated microglial cells. N9 microglial cells were exposed to extracts of Bacopa, and cytokine release was measured using sandwich ELISAs.

13. Linh Nguyen, Estrella Mountain Community College
Paper Making Chemistry and Its Application
This project focuses on the chemistry of paper making and how to apply the process in solving environmental issues. The goal is to save the natural forests by making sustainable paper from weeds, which are destructive plants in any agricultural crop.

14. Emmabel Orendain, Chapman University
The Cinderella Stories: Storytelling and Cultural Transmission
This project examines different adaptations of Cinderella - from Abadeha, the Filipino Cinderella, to Disney's Cinderella, to the movie A Cinderella Story and beyond. It illustrates how traditional Cinderella themes like the famous slipper are changed by adaptation and analyzes the cultural significance of these changes from generation to generation.

15. Stephanny Orozco, University of Nevada, Reno
Comparison of the Leukocyte Response to Infection with Borrelia hermsii in Callospermophilus lateralis, Peromyscus maniculatus and Tamias amoenus
Tick-borne relapsing fever is a zoonotic disease that is endemic in the western U.S. This study investigates the roles of three rodent species as disease reservoirs and establishes parameters for their white blood cell differentials. Differential results for infected and non-infected rodents were compared by sex, species, and infection status.
16. Megan Parish, Chapman University
Inside the Boudoir: Designing the World of Lynn Nottage’s Intimate Apparel
Designing quality scenic elements for the stage is an interdisciplinary process that requires historical and contextual research. This research breaks down the process of scenic design for Lynn Nottage's Intimate Apparel while placing an emphasis on the visual and textual research crucial to supporting the text of the play.

17. Michaella Perez, University of Alaska, Fairbanks
Quality Early Childhood Care: It's in the Environment, Too!
In Fairbanks, Alaska, there is a major shortage of quality childcare environments. This paper discusses the design of a center that accommodates 110 children from 6 weeks to 12 years of age, meeting all developmental needs through a child-centered approach.

18. Danielle Platt, Chapman University
Democratization, the French Revolution and the Arab Spring: Timeless Trends in Evolutionary Egalitarian Protest Politics
While many once hoped that the revolutions of the Arab Spring would successfully overthrow the dictatorships of the region and liberate the citizens of the Middle East, this conflict failed in establishing democratic politics. This poster analyzes the similar trends and history of revolutionary movements.

19. Sophie Rabb, Paradise Valley Community College
The Influence of ISIS on Iraq
This research explores the effects of the United States on the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria. While there are positives to the United States' involvement in the conflict, there are also negative potential outcomes.
20. Joey Redmon, Washington State University

BPA Glucuronidation, Metabolism, Domesticated Animals
Bisphenol-A (BPA) is an endocrine disruptor, and if sufficient BPA-glucuronidation does not occur in felines, BPA can accumulate in tissues causing health-related issues. BPA-glucuronidation rates were determined using liver microsomes from 16 cats and 11 other species. At plausible exposure concentrations, cats appear to be affected by glucuronidate BPA more slowly than other species.

21. Josue Regalado, University of Nevada, Reno

Enhanced Sleep is an Evolutionarily Adaptive Response to Starvation Stress
This study examines fruit flies that were evolutionarily selected to withstand starvation or withstand desiccation conditions. Through metabolic and behavioral tests, this research provides evidence of the adaptive traits these two flies show. It suggests that the enhanced sleeping phenotype of the starvation resistant flies is specific to starvation, not desiccation resistance.

22. Manuel Retana, University of Nevada, Reno

Remotability Verification Software Evaluation
This presentation describes previous experiences working at Hanford, addresses the outcomes of the research paper "Remotability Verification Software Evaluation," and concludes with current research.

23. Matthew Rodney, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Maintaining Safe Environments for Children: The Illusion of Safety through Criminalization of Children
The circumstances of the non-normative child are explored in a multidisciplinary context through the research and analysis of the criminalization of everyday activities of children. This study answers the question: Is different the same as delinquent?
24. Phillipe Rodriguez, California State University, Fullerton
Orbital Dynamics of Merging Neutron Stars
The time evolution model of binary neutron star systems is explored through hypothesized resonant frequencies, varying equations of state, and an expected range for neutron star masses. The time evolution model and numerical-relativity simulations with similar systems parameters are compared.

25. Omar Samara, California State University, Bakersfield
System for Pest Bird Control in Specialty Crops Utilizing Unmanned Aerial Vehicles

CONSTITUTION
Western Regional Honors Council

ARTICLE 1: Name
This organization shall be known as the Western Regional Honors Council (WRHC).

ARTICLE 2: Objective
The objective of this Council shall be promotion and advancement of honors and similar programs in western colleges and universities.

ARTICLE 3: Membership
Membership in the Council shall be institutional membership. Institutional membership shall be open to institutions of higher learning as well as to foundations and government agencies interested in honors and similar programs. Each institutional member shall be entitled to one vote.

ARTICLE 4: Voting Body
One representative of each institutional member shall be entitled to vote in all transactions of the Council.

ARTICLE 5: Officers
Officers of the Council: Definitions and Duties. The officers of the Council shall be a President, a Vice President, and an Executive Secretary/Treasurer.

The President, or in his/her absence the Vice President, shall preside at all meetings of the organization, shall appoint committees, shall maintain communication with members of the Council, shall offer advice to the WRHC conference coordinator, and shall perform other duties as pertain to the office of the President.

The Vice President is defined to be the conference coordinator of the current annual WRHC conference. The Vice President shall assume the responsibilities of coordinating the annual WRHC conference by choosing a date and location for the conference in a timely fashion, disseminating the "Call for Papers," selecting the papers and presentations for inclusion in the conference, and performing all other duties applicable to this position.

The Executive Secretary/Treasurer (EST) is defined to be the person in charge of keeping minutes of the meetings of the Council and performing such other duties incidental to the conduct of his/her office as may be required of her/him. In particular, s/he shall collect and manage all fees and dues owing to the organization and shall be the custodian of the Council's funds. S/he shall make an annual report to the organization as secretary and submit annually a complete and verified statement of the financial condition of the organization. S/he shall also serve as liaison with the headquarters of the National Collegiate Honors Council. The EST shall be responsible for regularly updating the WRHC website.

Selection Process for Offers of the Council; Terms of Office

The Vice President assumes the position of President at the business meeting of the annual WRHC conference. The President shall hold office for one year or until his/her successor is installed.
The conference coordinator of the following annual WRHC conference shall assume the position of Vice President at the business meeting of the current annual WRHC meeting. He/she shall hold this title until the business meeting of the following annual WRHC conference, at which point he/she assumes the role of President. In the event of the President’s death or incapacity during his/her term in office, the Vice President shall assume the duties of the President sooner than the business meeting of the following annual WRHC conference.

The Executive Secretary/Treasurer shall be elected at an annual meeting for a three-year renewable term. The headquarters of the WRHC shall reside at the home institution of the Executive Secretary/Treasurer.

Ordinarily, new officers shall be installed at an annual business meeting. If it is not possible to elect a new Executive Secretary/Treasurer at an annual business meeting and/or to have the Vice President assume the role of President, then such an election and/or installation shall take place in a vote by mail.

The President shall hold office for one year or until his/her successor is installed. The President, or in her/his absence the Vice President, shall preside at all meetings of the organization, shall appoint committees, and shall perform such duties as pertain to the office of President.

The chair of the following annual WRHC conference will assume the position of vice-president and succeed automatically to the office of the president and shall hold office for one year or upon the death or incapacity of the President, whichever occurs first.

The Executive Secretary/Treasurer shall be elected at an annual meeting for an indefinite term. The headquarters of WRHC shall reside at the home institution of the Executive Secretary/Treasurer.

The Executive Secretary/Treasurer shall keep minutes of the meetings of the Council and perform such other duties incidental to the conduct of his/her office as may be required of her/him.

S/he shall collect and manage all fees and dues owing to the organization and shall be the custodian of the Council's funds. S/he shall make an annual report to the organization as secretary and submit annually a complete and verified statement of the financial condition of the organization.

S/he shall serve as liaison with the headquarters of the National Collegiate Honors Council.

Ordinarily, new officers shall be installed at an annual meeting.

ARTICLE 6: Meetings
The Council shall hold two annual meetings: one in conjunction with the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Honors Council and one in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Western Regional Honors Council at a time and place to be determined by the membership at an annual meeting.

ARTICLE 7: Mail vote
Between meetings, any question or item of business shall be submitted by the Executive Secretary/Treasurer to a vote of the Council membership by mail.
ARTICLE 8: Amendments
Any proposal to alter or amend this constitution shall be submitted in writing to the Executive Secretary/Treasurer for suitable wording which clearly expresses the intent of the proposal and which is consistent with the other sections of the Constitution. The Executive Secretary/Treasurer shall distribute a copy of the proposed alteration or amendment to each institutional member prior to the annual meeting. Such alterations and amendments shall, upon receiving at a regular annual meeting a two-thirds majority of those present and voting, become a part of the Constitution.

BY-LAWS

ARTICLE 1: Dues and voting rights
Section 1. The annual dues for institutional membership shall be fifty (50) dollars.

Section 2. Only those institutional members whose dues are paid by the time of the annual conference are entitled to a vote in the Business meeting of the Council.

Section 3. Any member in arrears for one year shall be dropped from the rolls.

ARTICLE 2: Annual Conference
Section 1. The conference coordinator (Vice President) will plan the budget such that the conference will not end in deficit.

Section 2. Fees for the spring annual conference will be approved by majority vote at the fall meeting.

Section 3. Conference surplus revenues shall be transferred to the WRHC account as soon as all revenues have been collected and the bookkeeping for the conference completed. The WRHC will consider helping host institutions with conference costs by giving them a certain sum of money, to be both negotiated between the WRHC council and the Vice President and designed to keep conference fees as low as possible.

Section 4. Refunds for members unable to attend the conference for a valid reason, will be considered by the officers after the conclusion of the conference depending on funds available less 1%.

Section 5. The host institution will reimburse itself for conference costs incurred including administration, copy and publication costs, and travel.

Section 6. Student conference fees will be lower than faculty and administrators fees.

Section 7. The conference chair will submit a written financial report to the executive secretary/treasurer no later than two months after the conference.

Section 8. WRHC will provide seed money to those institutions that need it for the initial costs associated with planning a WRHC conference. It is expected that the seed money will be recovered from conference fees and returned to WRHC.

Section 9. The host institution of the WRHC conference will pay for the Scribendi reception at the WRHC conference through conference funds. In addition, the Scribendi winners attending the WRHC conference will have their conference registration fees waived by the host institution, which will pay for these fees through conference funding. Those persons who have been published in Scribendi will be encouraged to attend the conference but will not have their conference fees or other expenses waived.

ARTICLE 3: Scribendi, WRHC forum
Section 1. The WRHC will support Scribendi financially annually for publication which is done by students in the Honors Program at the University of New Mexico.

Section 2. The WRHC will provide awards to students who win the competitions in each category.

Section 3. The WRHC will provide judges for the Scribendi contests.

ARTICLE 4: Special initiatives
Section 1. The WRHC will provide stipends for WRHC students participating in an NCHC Honors Semester.

Section 2. The WRHC will provide travel awards for regional students who are elected to an NCHC position.

ARTICLE 5: President's Council
Section 1. A President's Council will consist of no more than 5 WRHC members. The members will include the current WRHC President, the current WRHC Vice President, the former WRHC President, the current WRHC Executive Secretary/Treasurer, and one member to be appointed at large.

Section 2. The President's Council will be formed after a discussion between the current WRHC President and the most recent former WRHC president. Potential President's Council members will then be contacted and invited to be part of this council.
Section 3. The duties of the President's Council will be to help find a suitable location for the next WRHC conference, to discuss suitable locations with potential hosts, to provide advice to WRHC Vice President (conference coordinator) about the logistics and costs of the conference, to meet at the annual WRHC and NCHC conferences, and to discuss and help resolve unfinished WRHC issues that have been or will be raised at the bi-annual WRHC business meetings.

ARTICLE 6: Amendments
Any proposal to alter or amend these by-laws shall be submitted in writing to the executive secretary/treasurer who shall distribute a copy of the proposed alteration to institutional members prior to the annual meeting. Such alterations shall, upon receiving, at a regular annual meeting, a simple majority of those present and voting, become a part of the by-laws.

Opened in 1995, the Silver Legacy Resort is the official hotel for the 2015 Western Regional Honors Conference. One of Reno’s largest resort-casinos, only a 20-minute walk or 5-minute Sierra Spirit bus ride from the University of Nevada, Reno, the Silver Legacy boasts traditional gaming amenities, fine and casual dining options, and non-gaming entertainment options in the heart of downtown Reno. Take time to explore the Silver Legacy during conference down time, as well as using the hotel as a base to see all of what downtown Reno has to offer, from restaurants to museums!
Role of Presentation Moderators

Whether during a conference panel or workshop, moderators play a key role in allowing our sessions to flow smoothly, with a high level of interaction between presenters and audience members at our 2015 conference.

Duties of moderators shall include:

1. Convening the session and mentioning the session title, as well as welcoming all participants on the panel and in the audience;
2. Introducing each panelist or workshop participant, including college affiliations and presentation titles;
3. Ensuring each individual presenter (or presenter-group on a specific topic) speaks no longer than 20 minutes;
4. Allowing at least 15 minutes prior to the scheduled end of the session to allow for comments and questions from the audience;
5. Facilitating questions and comments from the audience, and allowing each presenter to contribute to the discussion as desired;
6. Taking notes on presentations (including one’s own!) to spur questions and discussion if needed; and
7. Closing the session and inviting participants to either gather for the next scheduled break or meal.
Sponsors and Exhibitors

Representatives from the organizations below will be on the 4th floor of JCSU throughout the conference. Please stop by!
