

Notice to all Chem. 121 and 122 students

Because some students have taken advantage of the re-grade process, new rules will have to be implemented.

1. Regrades will need to be handed in before solutions are posted. In particular, all re-grades must be handed in the next period after the exam is returned.
2. Any empty or blank spaces where work for problems would normally be present will have a large red X, or Xs, placed through it by the graders and no credit will be given for anything written therein during re-grades.

I'm sorry to have to take these measures, but it is clear that some people have been doing these things and the rest of you are unavoidably caught-up in these consequences i.e. #1 above means that if you don't pick-up your exam the next period there will not be any re-grading for your exam.
