Topic:

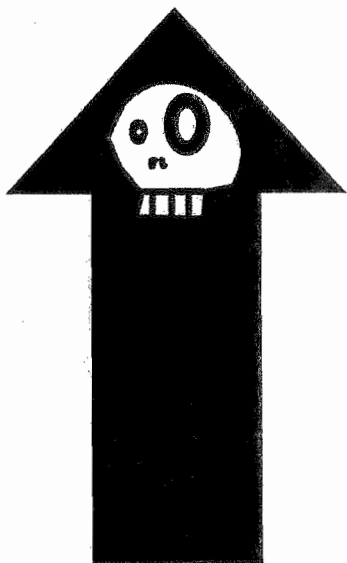

Should Governments Control the Use of Drugs?

California police recently confiscated a billion dollars of giggle bush. The extent of the drug culture and the ramifications of drug use present questions for a government: should it prohibit or control the use of drugs? Does anybody have a right to do so? And what problems might such control present for liberty? Is the government justified in the regulation and restriction of drugs or drug trade?

The philosophy department makes us use the term "club," but there are no formal sign-ups, obligations, or tangible benefits. We think you still ought to show up. :Who
