

University of Nevada, Reno

RESEARCH at NEVADA

Superstar Undergraduate Researcher

Claire Johnson

Field: Anthropology

Faculty Mentor: G. Richard Scott

Current Position: Graduate Student

Research Presentations/Awards:

Claire Johnson was the recipient of an Honors Undergraduate Research Award in 2007-2008 under the direction of Prof. G. Richard Scott. The topic of her research was Eskimo Craniofacial Morphology: An Analysis of the Hard-Chewing Hypothesis. She graduated from UNR in May 2008. Claire received full scholarship to continue her education toward a doctoral degree from several universities, and chose to pursue her graduate degree at the University of California, Santa Barbara starting in Fall 2008. Claire has presented her research at three conferences. She is the recipient of many awards and scholarships including the "Outstanding Graduate in Social Sciences," awarded by the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. We are proud of Claire's accomplishments and are pleased to have played a role in providing her the opportunity to gain experience in research.