The 15 to Finish campaign is designed to encourage students to take a full course load each semester to help them earn their degrees faster. The premise behind 15 to Finish is to promote the completion of 30 credits per year so that a typical bachelor's degree can be completed in 4 years.

Below is a suggested Human Development and Family Studies course plan that follows 15 to Finish. However, most of our students find that following this suggested 4-year plan can be tough, which is why we highly recommend coming to advisement every semester. Many of our students complete this degree while employed full- or part-time, with children at home, or have other obligations that allow our HDFS students to benefit from plans different than what is below. Remember, this is only one suggested path to obtaining your degree in HDFS – work with your advisor to set out a plan that works for you.
