About Havelock Wool

Havelock Wool makes insulation from sheep's wool, in turn, connecting nature to our daily lives. ‘Farm to Walls’ is a concept that allows for the natural landscape enjoyed by New Zealand sheep, and the integrity of the fiber that has honed its thermal capacity over thousands of years, to protect and insulate the spaces where we live, work and learn.

Our raw material grows in a serene setting that serves as the baseline for a trade that is responsible for the sequestration of more than 500,000 tons of atmosphere-derived carbon. Havelock Wool insulation provides the ability to manage moisture, remove harmful chemicals and remain an effective insulator over the life of the structure.

About the Internship

The core expectation of a Communications Intern is to provide marketing and communications support to specific research and writing projects. A successful intern is organized and motivated to effect real, positive change. He or she will also shadow the founder and in turn have the opportunity to learn many facets of the business.

Required Qualifications

- Ability to research and deliver effective, concise reports on your findings
- Comfortable communicating with outside organizations

Preferred Qualifications

- Comfortable and confident communication abilities

Internship Duties

- Research and report findings to the founder
- Work closely with the founder to disseminate the Company’s message
- Sales lead generation and deal closure

$12/hour for 120 hours

Spring Semester 2017

Apply by November 1st, 2016 at www.unr.edu/career