Request for Release from University Dismissal

After one year, an undergraduate student who has been dismissed may return to the University only on the basis of evidence that underlying conditions have materially improved and that he or she is now capable of academic success. Contact your academic advisor for appropriate criteria.

Attach appropriate documentation (Required: an essay describing BOTH the circumstances that led to your dismissal and the changes you have made to ensure completion of your academic plan (which must include all of the coursework necessary to reach a 2.0); Optional: letters of support from faculty and/or advisors, medical records, transcripts of work completed elsewhere, etc.) Late registration fees will be assessed according to the regular registration calendar.

Students returning from dismissal must progress toward good standing each semester and raise their University of Nevada GPA to at least a 2.0 within two regular semesters. Search "Dismissal" in the General Catalog for more information at http://catalog.unr.edu
