These Mackay School alums dig their alma mater.

Their disciplines range from geography to hydrogeology to mining engineering to geological engineering. Yet each of these Nevada alums share two common bonds—they all graduated from the Mackay School and they all support the Nevada Alumni Association. By staying connected to their alma mater through news updates, special events, campus happenings and more, these leading scientists are our kind of rock stars.

And they have the card to prove it.

Their disciplines range from geography to hydrogeology to mining engineering to geological engineering. Yet each of these Nevada alums share two common bonds—they all graduated from the Mackay School and they all support the Nevada Alumni Association. By staying connected to their alma mater through news updates, special events, campus happenings and more, these leading scientists are our kind of rock stars.